A raspberry ketone is a natural phenolic compound which is responsible for a raspberry's wonderful aroma. Raspberry ketones have been used for decades in the natural flavoring and aromatic industry. However, due to the excessive cost, very limited supply and low yields, raspberry ketones were never studied for any other application...until recently. Scientists have now found a way to make a high purity, reasonably priced raspberry ketone. This enables people to ingest the proper amount of raspberry ketones for their body weight without spending a fortune on the product.*
