Healthy Origins® Natural Astaxanthin is a carotenoid produced from Haematococcus pluvialis microalgae which is extracted by supercritical CO2. Carotenoids are organic pigments that naturally occur in plants and other photosynthetic organisms. These organic pigments are responsible for giving many plants, fruits, and sea life their vibrant colors. There are over 600 known carotenoids which are broken down into 2 groups; Xanthophylls and Carotenes.

One of the most important carotenoids is the Xanthophyll group is the super antioxidant Astaxanthin.*
